Lucknow

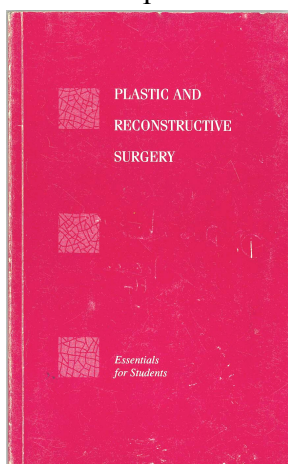

Dear Colleagues,

We met at Pune last year. It is now going to be nearly a year since the last APSICON. Its memories are still very vivid and clear. The conference was executed with military precision. Kudos to the team led by Dr. L.P. Sadhotra, and the efforts put on by Dr. Pradeep Bhargava, Dr. T.S. Bhatti and many other colleagues from the armed forces.

We are looking forward to meet once again. This time at the holy place of Varanasi. The city has special relevance to our specialty. 'Sushruta' was born and practiced here. The place can be called as the 'cradle of plastic Surgery'.

Even today, few thousand year later, the West still recognizes the origin and birth of this super specialty. I am excerpting from the introduction of a booklet 'essentials of plastic surgery' circulated by the Plastic Surgeons Education Foundation of USA. The preface states....

"This book has been written primarily for medical students, with constant attention to the thought, "Is this something a student should know when he or she finishes medical school?" It is not designed to be a comprehensive text, but rather an outline that can be read in the limited time available in a burgeoning curriculum. It is designed to be read from beginning to end.

Plastic and reconstructive surgery had its beginning before Christ, when clever surgeons in India reconstructed the nose by transferring a flap of forehead skin.

It is a modern field, stimulated by the challenging reconstructive problems of the unfortunate victims of the World Wars. The advent of the operating microscope has thrust the plastic surgeon of today into the forefront of advances in small vessel and nerve repair, culminating in the successful replantation of amputated parts as small as distal fingers. The field is broad and varied and this book covers the areas of involvement and training of today's plastic surgeon.

The Plastic Surgery Educational Foundation is proud to provide complimentary copies of the Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery Essentials for Students handbook to all third year medical students in the United States and Canada."

Come to Varanasi in large numbers, along with your family members. An excellent academic and social program beacons you. Dr. V. Bhattacharya, Dr. S.K. Singh and their colleagues are leaving no stone unturned to welcome you and to see that your stay in Varanasi is academically fruitful and socially pleasant.

The year has been an active one, many regional meetings and conferences, were organized under the aegis of the APSI. Many were endorsed by the APSI.

Our website which was in a limbo. After going through a number of hands has been relaunched. The plastic surgery yahoo group is continuing actively. Useful academic interactions are taking place. Dr. Sunil Soni, deserves special mention for its success.

Our journal has also done well. It is now of international standards. The previous editors, Dr. P. Kumar, Dr. P.K. Bhilwani, Dr. R.Sabapathy, Dr. R.Chandra, contributed their might to keep it going. Dr. M.R. Thattai deserves praise for bringing it to the present pedestal. He shall be completing his second term this year, and we would require an able replacement so that journal, gets indexed and its progress ensured.

The executive trustee is also changing this year after completing the five year term. Dr. J. R. Jaju our past president has done a wonderful job as the conscience keeper of the association. We thank him for all his efforts. The 80 G exemption of the association, is under revival.

During the year 2009, we shall be hosting two great international events. The 7th Asia Pacific Burns Congress from 18th -20th Jan.09 and the International Congress of Federation of the Plastic Reconstructive and Aesthetic Surgery from 29th Nov.- 3rd December, 2009. The latter assumes special significance, since the previous IPRAS event was held in 1987 (organized by Dr. Suresh Gupta). Overseas delegates who attended that conference fondly remember it. We are also proud of it. 'The 2009' IPRAS meet is being organized by Dr. R.B. Ahuja, He is now a veteran conference organizer. Let us join hands and make this conference an outstanding one, which shall be remembered by the delegates, in the years to come.

Due to this our own APSICON for 2009 has been postponed for Aug. (2009) Dr. G. Balakrishna has already started the preparations.

Dr. Jyotsana Murthy and Dr. Prabhat Srivastava shall be completing their three year term as executive members. I thank them for their valuable inputs and cooperation.

I shall look forward to meet you personally during APSICON 2008 at Varanasi.

With best wishes and kind regards.

Arun Kumar Singh
Hon. Secretary,

Communication from the legal cell

The Professional Tax is likely to triple from Rs 2,500 a year to Rs 7,500 from the next financial year.

With a view to increasing the revenues of state governments and local bodies, the central government has decided to raise the ceiling on professional tax.

Since a Constitutional amendment is required to enable any increase in professional tax, the government has drafted a Bill for the 109th amendment of the Constitution. The Bill will be introduced in the next session of Parliament that commences on October 17.

Professional tax is levied by state governments or local municipal bodies and is in addition to the income tax that the central government collects from you.

Earlier too a similar Bill for the 94th amendment of the Constitution, readied by the Union ministry of finance in 2001, aimed at amending Clause 2 of Article 276 to increase the professional tax ceiling was moved. But the then Cabinet deferred decision on it in January 2002 to examine an alternate scheme.

When no decision to increase professional tax was taken, a proposal was mooted to amend Article 276 to empower Parliament to fix or raise ceiling of the professional tax through a parliamentary law instead of requiring amendment in the Constitution to raise the limit. However, the Union law ministry rejected the proposal saying that the scheme of the Constitution does not permit such leeway.

Article 276 of the Constitution empowers the state to levy the tax in respect of profession, trade, calling and employment, but it also fixes the ceiling that can be amended only through the Constitutional amendment by Parliament.

Currently, 24 Indian states collect revenue through this source and most of them have already imposed the maximum permissible levy of Rs 2,500 a year. Uttar Pradesh, Uttaranchal, Jharkhand and Arunachal Pradesh are the only exceptions and have not levied professional tax.

Gujarat, Goa, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Kerala, Rajasthan, Bihar, Punjab and Tamil Nadu have empowered their municipal bodies to collect professional tax while Jammu & Kashmir, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh State Governments impose this tax themselves.

State assemblies have enacted either the state law or the local body law to enable imposition of this tax. Once Parliament adopts the amendment in the Constitution to raise the ceiling to Rs 7,500 a year, state assemblies will amend their own laws to clamp the tax.

The original ceiling on the professional tax, as prescribed in the Constitution passed by the Constituent Assembly, was Rs 250 a year. It was raised to Rs 2,500 a year in 1988 and since then both the 11th and 12th Finance Commission have called for its upward revision.

Dr. Atul K. Shah
